As a Simonton Preferred Installer ("Installer"), you are an independent contractor who has participated in certain training opportunities through Simonton, but are not an employee or agent of Simonton Windows. Simonton Windows is not responsible for installation or any other work performed by you or your company. All questions from homeowners about installation services and the professional experience of Installers should be addressed directly with you. When evaluating constructors, we recommend homeowners seek an installer that is State licensed, insured, abides by all building codes, provides references to homeowners who have used the installer for similar installation projects in the past, and warrants their installation work.
